

Why Are Cities
Across the Country
Switching
to Police METROPOLITANS?

Because They're
The Perfect
Cars for Parking
Patrol...

... and Around-Town Law Enforcement!

A number of law enforcement agencies are switching to the versatile, maneuverable two-man Metropolitan "1500" that provides low-cost operation combined with maximum protection. Durable Single-Unit construction assures extra safety in case of accident and the smart hardtop provides complete protection from the weather. A rear seat is handy for emergency equipment and the trunk can be opened from inside the car so that driver and passenger can get at contents quickly.

One demonstration ride in the versatile Met will convince officials in your town that this is an important step forward towards greater police efficiency!

At the right, Captain Milton Odell, Assistant Chief of the Huntington Park, California, Police Department takes delivery of a Met to replace the former three-wheel motorcycle. Officials in your town, too, will find a Met the ideal police car.

The Metropolitan Is A Better Two-Man Police Vehicle

Versatile—The Metropolitan "1500" does everything a three-wheel motorcycle does for less money—plus helps in city speed control, other around-town duties.

Extra-Protection—Here's all-weather protection for around-the-clock police work—and Single-Unit construction means extra protection from traffic hazards.

Available with Right-Hand Drive—The Metropolitan "1500" is available with right-hand drive at no extra cost.
