

INTRODUCING THE ALL-NEW RANGER

Feel the difference

RANGER

Ready to take on the world
Coming in 2011

Built without compromise. With its muscular lines, the all-new Ranger reflects a long history of tough trucks. If you're ready to take on the world every day you walk out your door, the all-new Ranger is ready to do it with you. History shows that nobody builds trucks quite like Ford and in creating the all-new Ranger, compromise was not a consideration.

Drawing on the extensive knowledge and talent of the design and engineering specialists on Ford's global team, we built it, from the ground up, with one objective in mind. To give you a pick-up truck that gives you total confidence where you really want it. In power, control, comfort and safety.

Tested to the limits and beyond

A lot of hard work goes into building a great truck, but before we said job well done, we put the all-new Ranger to the test in the real world. And that means every nut, bolt, component and piece of technology has been tried, tested and proven for physical endurance, performance and safety across five continents.
