Dynamism is the combination of sport and design –
and your ideas.

It can be seen at first glance that the Audi Q5 radiates dynamism. So that more is discovered on closer inspection, you can enhance it with the comprehensive offroad style pack. Or you can decide for the extravagantly produced east aluminium wheels that offer you an outstanding interplay between elegance and sporting character. And this is true, no matter which design you decide on.

Front protection strips and wheel arch extensions

The front protection strips, painted in Stone Grey, metallic, together with the extensions for the four wheel arches, underscore the distinctive design of the vehicle and provide additional protection for the front and side sections.

Front spoiler

The front spoiler is available in combination with a stainless steel underride protection. It improves the vehicle's forward underbody protection against stone chipping and the uneven features of off-road driving.

Door strips

Painted in Stone Grey, metallic, these reduce the damage caused by stone chipping and other causes of damage underneath the doors. With their wide shape they give an even more distinctive appearance to the vehicle.

Rear spoiler

The rear spoiler stresses the dynamic rear section of the Audi Q5, and at the same time protects the rear underbody of the vehicle with a stainless steel underride protection.

Exhaust pipes

A sporting alternative to the standard surrounds are the optional stainless steel tail pipes, which are combined with the rear spoiler from the offroad style pack. The surrounds can also be obtained for the standard rear spoiler.

Running boards

The stainless steel running boards offer an additional plus for comfort. For example, they provide easy access to the attachment of the base carrier bars, or the stowing of equipment in the ski and luggage box on the roof. Rubber pads reduce the risk of slipping. A load of 200 kg can be supported on each board.
